The Best Buy—A Home Only a Coffin Left King George in Danger For Safety—Savings Banks

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

WHAT are you going to buy for Christmas? Do you own a home of your own, for your children when you get married and have them, a home for your old age. A PIECE OF THIS EARTH WHICH IS YOURS?

If not, the best thing to do with Christmas savings is to buy a home, or start buying one Buy only what you are sure you can pay for. There are 10,000 good investments in this country, but no investment is as good as money invested in a home of your own.

Thomas F. Ryan, who left not less than one hundred millions of dollars and probably several hundred millions, owns nothing now but the coffin that holds him. Funeral services were held yesterday in the beautiful Church of St. Jean Baptiste that he built in New York. His body will rest in the cathedral he built at Richmond, Va., not far from the spot where he lived as a poor orphan boy.

"Where does he live now"? an official at the funeral service whispered to the undertaker.

"Have you the men ready to carry it?"

"It" is all that is left of what once controlled wealth and power.

Tears on the cheeks of many at the church, servants, friends and relatives, showed that the dead man had been generous and kind.

King George's condition causes alarm throughout the British Empire. A hard worker, never rugged, there was reason yesterday to fear that the King's illness might prove fatal. He shows little power of resistance to the lung trouble attacking him.

The Prince of Wales has been warned and a battleship is kept near off the African coast, ready to go now to.

Fortunately Britain always has had, a well-organized civil service, a ministry made up of men that understand public affairs and devote their lives to them, with a ruler that does not govern, but avoids the mistakes of elections, automatically succeeded when he died.

Good news for the wise and thrifty. Savings banks are raising their interest rate, in the keen competition for deposits next week, in New York city alone, five savings banks increased interest rates to 4½ per cent.

Nobody knows what will happen to Wall Street investments. But everybody knows that money put in the savings banks will be there when you want it.

Instead of guessing and gambling, why not SAVE and have something ready when you see a real opportunity.

Admiral Scheer is dead a hero to all Germans. He commanded the Kaiser's fleet in the battle with the British fleet at Jutland, and always insisted that the Germans won in that engagement.

The English had the satisfaction of sinking the German fleet later. Who laughs last, laughs best.

The important fact is that both fleets ventured out once, then hurried back to port to be kept there during the war. Submarines and airplanes made the risk too great.

Britain before the great war called herself mistress of the seas. When war came, with its new inventions, she did not dare send her great battle fleets to sea.

No floating ship is worth a penny in war, except fastest cruisers to protect a commercial navy.

Mr. P. W. Garrett calls attention to this maddening fact. Ten years ago you could have bought one share in each of 20 leading industrial companies for $3979. Today your 20 shares would be worth $29,130.

Who knows what those 20 shares will be worth ten years hence.

Even that is mild, compared with the performance of individual stocks.

If you had bought 20 shares of General Motors when the Stock Exchange was closed during the war for $1000, which is what Otto H. Kahn advised his friends to do, the 20 shares would be worth today $100,000 to say nothing of dividends, meanwhile.

You should be very careful, especially how you sell anything short, in this country.

Get something good, in America; take care of it and it will take care of you.

But don't gamble.

PRINCE IS REPORTED RECALLED

London, Nov. 27 (INS)—A persistent report with apparent justification was circulated here late this afternoon that the Prince of Wales has been recalled from his African hunting trip.

The secretary of the protectorate of Buckingham Palace was asked point blank by the International News Service whether the report is true. He replied: "I understand to say nothing about it, but you may publish it."

London, Nov. 27 (AP)—A change telegraph dispatch from Cape Town says that a message received from Dodoma, Tanganyika, states that a code message reached the provincial commissioner there shortly after 10 o'clock this morning and a fast motor car was sent immediately to meet the Prince of Wales, who is coming in from his hunting camp.

The dispatch said it was believed the message contained instructions for the Prince to return to London, where his father, King George, is sick.

The Evening News today printed a dispatch from Sir Percival Phillips, special correspondent of the Daily Mail, with the Prince, saying:

"An important message for the Prince of Wales arrived this morning. A courier was immediately dispatched to meet him on the road from his camp to Dodoma. The Prince of Wales is due here early this evening."

The Evening News adds that a high official at Buckingham Palace told that newspaper that the prince's return to Dodoma was part of his plans before King George was

DONOVAN QUITS AS CITY CLERK; DOYLE GETS POST

James "Smiling Jim" Donovan, for 17 years city clerk of Boston and for half a century one of the most popular figures in its public life, today announced his retirement from the office he has filled so long.

In a communication to the City Council, read by Asst. City Clerk Wilfred Doyle, he stated that because of illness which has confined him to his home at 71 Emerald st., South End, for 5 weeks, he was leaving public life.

On motion of Councillor Israel Ruby the council unanimously voted to elect Assistant City Clerk Wilfred J. Doyle to fill the unexpired term, taking office December 1, and holding it until January 1, 1930.

Doyl, who read the communication from the retiring clerk, has been in the city clerk's office for 40 years and is as well known as his former chief.

In his communication Donovan said the reason for his resignation was illness, and that he does not feel physically able to continue in office.

He stated his 17 years' association with the City Council had been most pleasant and he regretted the fact he was forced to retire, but that he did not feel physically able to continue.

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—A member of the crew of the foundered steamer Vestris testified at the Government's steamboat inspection inquiry today that no effort had been made to get passengers into the starboard lifeboats of the sinking liner.

The witness, Alfred Hansen, an assistant pantryman, who took pictures of the sinking ship, said that three of the starboard boats got away from the ship filled with members of the crew.

Hansen said no effort was made to get the women and children, most of whom died with the sinking of the ship, out of lifeboats on the port side, although he testified it would have been easier to raise those boats back to the davits and put the women and children into the starboard boats than to force the port boats over the side of the ship with oars.

The assistant pantryman said the women and children were placed in the port boats about an hour before the Vestris went down.

Alfred Duncan, second steward on the Vestris, said that if lines had been strung across the ship it might have been possible to put passengers into the starboard lifeboats.

He said he had tried to string such a line, but failed. In describing the launching of the starboard boats, he said they swung "way out" on the davits and that it would have been necessary to jump into the water first before boarding them.

M'MANUS IS HELD AS SLAYER OF ROTHSTEIN

New York, Nov. 27 (INS)—George ("Hump") McManus, white light figure and former gambling colleague of Arnold Rothstein, was formally charged today with the murder of Rothstein, the "gambling king," who was shot in Room 349 in the Park Central Hotel on November 4.

Shortly after surrendering to Dist. Atty. Banton of New York County, McManus was arraigned in general sessions court before Judge Francis S. Mancuso on a short affidavit which formally accused him of the crime.

He pleaded not guilty and was held without bail for hearing on Friday morning. James D. C. Murray was in court with him as counsel.

Rothstein and McManus were intimate friends. The former was shot after he had been called to the Park Central room by some one who said over the telephone that he was McManus.

PROFIT TAKING MAKES MARKET IRREGULAR

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—The main price tendency on today's stock market was again upward, although the market developed more irregularity than in most recent sessions, due to a rather general desire to take profits before the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

Copper and railroad shares were in the forefront of the advance, with a sprinkling of high-priced specialties marked up 5 to 12 points by pool operations.

Quick sale of the $55,000,000 issue of New York city corporate stock offered earlier in the week was generally accepted as evidence of underlying ease in the credit situation.

There was nothing in the day's news to explain the renewed accumu

CROWDS AWAIT NEWS OF KING'S CONDITION OUTSIDE PALACE

CRISIS IN ILLNESS IS NEAR

taken ill, and it therefore was not due to any request from England.

It was later stated by the Press Association that it had been "officially" announced at St. James' Palace that the Prince had not as yet been ordered back home.

The Duke of York, speaking at a meeting of the British Poster Advertising Association today said: "I am glad to be able to tell you there is a slight improvement in the king's condition this morning."

"Some of you will know what pleurisy is and how depressing it can be," continued the king's second son. "There are two things to be remembered, from the nature of the illness, progress must be slow and there must be ups and downs, but progress has been made."

The announcement was received with prolonged cheering.

King May Have Caught Cold on Hunting Trip

London, Nov. 27 (INS)—The pall of gloom which had settled over England because of the apparent seriousness of the condition of King George was lifted somewhat today when the royal physician, Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson, issued a bulletin at 11 o'clock which indicated some improvement.

"The king had a more restful night. His temperature is somewhat lower. His condition is otherwise unchanged," the bulletin read.

This afternoon the king was reported somewhat brighter. Palace officials said the royal patient was putting up a valiant fight against his illness, his cheerfulness going far to aid the medical treatment.

There was some disappointment felt by the British public in the fact that the attending physicians were unable to announce any improvement in the "pleural trouble."

News that the king's fever had somewhat diminished was greeted with cheers.

The queen and Princess Mary left Buckingham Palace in an automobile late in the day to make some visits. It was noticed that the queen was smiling and looked well, which was taken as an indication of further good progress which his majesty was reported to be making.

Earlier in the afternoon Princess Elizabeth, the little daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, arrived at the palace with her nurse, making her first visit since the king's illness.

Remain All Night

The crisis in the king's illness is due within the next 48 hours. During part of yesterday and last night the king suffered constant pain, according to police attendants.

An anxious throng which crowded about the gates of Buckingham palace for hours was visibly aided by the cheering news in the morning bulletin.

The lowering of His Majesty's temperature was received as a particularly good sign.

Although Buckingham officials at 7:30 this morning had said that there had been no change for the worse, throughout the night all England feared that the king's condition was worse than indicated in official bulletins.

Indicative of the increasing realization throughout England that His Majesty's illness has assumed serious proportions was the tone of the morning papers published here today.

Most of these, including one or two of the more conservative organs, dropped the favorable tone they had maintained since the beginning of the King's illness and admitted that the latest bulletins on his condition gave just cause for alarm.

The Daily Mail even went so far as to declare that the situation was "frankly unsatisfactory" and that the King's condition could not be construed as anything but "serious."

The largest crowd that has yet congregated about the palace since the King's illness was in evidence all through the night.

Soon after the issuance of a bulletin at 8:30 last night, which stated that the King had had an uncomfortable day, and that his temperature was 101.6 degrees, although the pleurisy had not extended further, and he was maintaining his strength, people of all walks of life gathered in a huge throng about the palace.

Day laborers mingled with gaily garbed sportsmen. Women from "the lime house district, dressed in ragged shawls, rubbed elbows with fashionably gowned society women. All were united in one common wish—that the King might soon be well.

When at 11 o'clock last night the royal physicians suddenly visited His Majesty the throng increased, despite the growing cold, as rumors of a dire change in his condition spread.

Although the physicians did not post a bulletin when they left a half an hour later, an audible sigh of relief ran through the throng when it was unofficially announced that the patient was resting easily and that his condition was unchanged.

A few persons remained before the gates all through the night.

The statement of an unnamed medical authority yesterday that the King was suffering from pneumonia and faced an operation if the pleurisy and fever did not abate within a few days was being given wide credence today despite the fact that the bulletins of the royal physicians have not mentioned pneumonia as yet.

The Daily Mail takes a most pessimistic view of the situation. In semi-editorial comment the Mail today says:

"We regret to state that hopes entertained two days ago have not been fulfilled and that up to the present there has been no progress toward recovery. It is realized that the King is engaged in a hard uphill fight and that his constitution is being put to a severe test.

"The general infection persists and, in the most favorable circumstances, the battle must be of a prolonged and anxious nature. The condition of anyone at the age of the King (63 years) suffering from such an illness must be considered serious."

OPEN BIDS FOR ARMY PIERS

Three bids for a five-year lease of two piers at the Army Base, which are now occupied by the Boston Tidewater Terminals, Inc., were opened today at the U. S. Shipping Board in Washington.

The bids were protested by the Atlantic Tidewater Terminals, Inc., of Philadelphia, of which the Boston Tidewater Terminals is a subsidiary. Their lease expires on December 1. Recently they submitted a bid for the coming five years, but the government felt that the piers should yield a larger revenue.

The highest of the three bids opened today was that to the Bay State Shipping Co. of Boston, offering 51 percent of the gross operating receipts with a yearly guarantee of $78,000.

It is up to McManus now to tell whether he was in Room 349 and left his coat in a hurried exit after the shooting. The coat was found there by police.

William P. O'Brien, Jr., 30-year-old father of four children, was killed today when his light sedan was cut in two by a Boston & Maine express train at the Middlesex ave. crossing, Medford.

O'Brien, whose home was at 4 Ainsworth pl., Melrose, was employed as a driver for a milk company in Charlestown, and was on his way to work.

The light sedan he was driving failed to get across the tracks before the speeding express, bound from Boston to Medford, crashed it directly in the center.

One part of the car was tossed to the left of the rails and in this section, O'Brien was jammed.

O'Brien was picked out of the wreckage and was rushed to the Malden hospital, where he was found to have many broken bones.

URGES HIGHER HUNTING FEES

A substantial increase in fees for fishing and hunting licenses was proposed today at the annual conference of sportsmen held at the State House by William C. Adams, State director of fisheries and game.

He told his audience of about 100 in the Gardner Auditorium that the rank and file among the sportsmen favored hunting and fishing as a "closed sport."

"They feel that when they pay $2.25 for a sporting license they should receive a rod or a shotgun to boot," he said.

"Many do not realize when they are enjoying this sport they pay absolutely nothing towards the upkeep of the land on which they hunt. We will have to get away from the idea that this is a free-a-sport."

The increase in rates, he said, will be recommended by him to the incoming Legislature.

PRINCE GEORGE TO LEAVE BERMUDA FOR LONDON

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 26—Prince George, youngest son of the king of England, plans to leave immediately for London, where his father is ill, it was learned.

It is understood that the Prince will attempt to arrange a transfer to a fast liner in mid-Atlantic. He is an officer of the naval training ship Durban which has been stationed here for the winter.

London, Nov. 26 — An official spokesman at Buckingham Palace "knew nothing" of plans for Prince George to return here from Bermuda. The admiralty also denied knowledge of the plan, it is said.

and that Samuel Gallo, not Gaugi Cero, committed the crime.

IN DEATH'S SHADOW.

Cero was then in State prison death house to be electrocuted for the murder. He was granted a reprieve. Then the girl disappeared and it was feared she had been kidnaped.

Questioned today by Asst. Dist. Atty. McDonnell, Inspector Cavagnaro and Special Officer Martin Conroy, in the presence of Police Stenographer Augustus Gill, she said she had not seen Fantasia slain.

SURPRISED AT ARREST.

She said, according to her interrogators, that she first learned of the shooting from her sister, widow of Fantasia.

Her replies to questions were typed and sworn to under Judge Devlin, together with her sworn statement of November 8. The court issued a warrant charging perjury. The girl was surprised when told she was to be held.

Hearing was set for December 4, the day after that on which Cero's petition for a new trial will be heard by Judge Cox. This arrangement and the setting of high bail were on request of McDonnell, who told Judge Devlin:

"She has republished the entire statement she made to Governor Fuller and Judge Cox."

Police are investigating a report that Miss Romano several years ago played a somewhat similar role in another Boston murder case.

FIND STILL IN CELL OF CORCORAN

The still, according to prison officials, apparently was being used to provide a small but regular supply of liquor every day to a large group of favored inmates who were dependant of "Big Bill" Corcoran's secret.

Rubbing alcohol was procured by trusties from the prison hospital for use in the still, officials now believe, and this was distilled into a beverage with "kick" enough to make the prisoners who shared it forgetful of the grim walls and iron bars.

The capacity was only between one and two gallons a day and while that was not enough to supply the demand, it was sufficient to instill good spirits mightily into those permitted to partake.

It was so cleverly concealed in the cell that only a search as thorough as the one made imperative by the recent exposures could have resulted in its discovery.

Corcoran is said to have been disciplined some time ago for other infractions of prison rules.

After a career as prosecuting chief in Middlesex County, he stood trial several times for alleged complicity in extortion schemes. He was sentenced in Middlesex Superior Court in May, 1923, in the Merrill case, along with J. Warren Kane and Theresa Durgin, who received shorter terms.

Prior to that he figured in two trials in Suffolk County, both of which ended in mistrials being declared. Following his conviction in the Merrill case he was tried on a conspiracy charge with Daniel H. Coakley, and both were acquitted. Corcoran was later tried in Suffolk County in a case involving alleged conspiracy against Victor Searles and the jury disagreed.

ZEPP WILL FLY OVER ARCTIC IN 1930

Berlin, Nov. 27 (INS)—The transatlantic dirigible Graf Zeppelin will make two Arctic flights in the spring of 1930, the German air ministry announced today.

If his health permits, Dr. Hugo Eckener, who commanded the Graf on her round-trip flight to Lakehurst, N. J., will be in charge.

Dr. Eckener and Dr. Nansen and Transportation Minister Guerard held a long conference at which it was first announced that the flights be made next year. Dr. Eckener has been reluctant to consent to flights over the far north, but as this was one of the conditions for government support of his future projects, he consented.

Capt. Walter Brune, executive secretary of the association, gave out the following statement:

"The flight will be staged in April or early May. The real purpose of the flights is to determine, through echo soundings, the nature of the edges of the American and European continents and the actual boundaries of the Arctic sea.

"The itinerary of the Graf will be from Friedrichshafen to Leningrad, then along the northern edge of Siberia to Alaska and Nome; thence over the edge of the North American continent to Greenland and back to Leningrad."

The presidential group lunched on the Maryland's quarterdeck, which had been decorated with greenery for the occasion.

The battleship arrived at 7 o'clock, to find the anchorage shared by the American cruisers Rochester and Tulsa.

A national salute of 21 guns was fired by the Maryland as it came to a halt. Greetings from Diaz, Morcado and Chamorro were sent aboard and the Rochester sent its launch with a party of officers to the Maryland.

Nicaragua is the third country to be visited by the Hoover good will party, which came here from Honduras and San Salvador, where Mr. Hoover yesterday delivered the first two speeches of the trip.

Heavy Gale Delays Hoover at La Union

La Union, Salvador, Nov. 27—Stormy weather again disrupted the schedule of President-elect Herbert Hoover's Latin-American "friendship" tour today.

A gale which struck over Cutuoc, Salvador, prevented the scheduled departure of the battleship Maryland at midnight.

The storm also caused widespread damage in Costa Rica, covering railroad connections between Puntarenas, the port at which the...rrival was to have landed Mr. Hoover, and San Jose, the capital. As a result Mr. Hoover's scheduled visit to San Jose was cancelled and it is now doubtful whether Costa Rica will be visited at all.

Mr. Hoover was wildly acclaimed yesterday by Honduras and Salvador, the first two countries he visited on his tour.

At Amapala, Honduras and La Union he stressed the fact that his mission was one of friendship. Representatives of the presidents of both nations delivered orations of welcome.

In replying to these Mr. Hoover said that only sound basis for international communion between countries lay in mutual respect and prosperous economic conditions.

Presidential salutes greeted the Hoover party both here and at Amapala. Throngs of people thronged the streets of both cities and Amapala, Mr. Hoover was presented with the flag of the city and a ribbon with the Honduran colors of blue and white was hung about his neck.

After an informal luncheon at Amapala the Hoover party left for La Union in motor launches. The 9-mile journey across the bay was rather rough, but no one in the party suffered any ill-effects.

Brazil Offers Pa'ace for Hoover's Visit

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Brazilian Government has decided to place the historic Palace of Guanabara at the disposal of President-elect Hoover during Mr. Hoover's visit here.

The bomb was under examination when it was accidentally set off. The commandant of the school was among the dead. The building was partially destroyed.

COUNT WANTS BRIDE, RADIO; REFRIGERATOR

New York, Nov. 27.—Count Folke Bernadotte, nephew of King Gustaf of Sweden and lieutenant of the Swedish Horse Guards, is to have an American bride, a radio, an electric refrigerator and a vacuum cleaner.

Next Saturday at Pleasantville, N. Y., he is to wed Miss Estelle P. Manville, prospective heiress to about $20,000,000 of the fortune founded by the "asbestos king." It is estimated the wedding will cost $750,000.

"We are going to Stockholm and live where I have a flat," the Count said on his arrival from Sweden with members of his wedding party. "I intend to have a radio, an electric refrigerator and a vacuum cleaner. Just like all other folks have."

JUST LIKE A CIRCUS!

With him came his royal cousins, Prince Gustave Adolphus, heir apparent to the Swedish throne, and Prince Sigvard and other titled members of a party of 15. Miss Manville met him at the pier.

The count gave her a big, long hug and he kissed her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram E. Manville.

"It's just like a circus," Miss Manville laughed.

The count revealed that he first met Miss Manville at Monte Carlo, last spring.

"How many times did you have to ask her?" he was questioned.

"No, no, no, no, no," he shouted, laughing in spite of himself as a blush colored his neck and face.

"You mustn't ask me that. It is not easy to get the best girl in America."

DAD GAVE UP THRONE.

Count Bernadotte's father, Prince Oscar Bernadotte, renounced his rights to the Swedish throne to marry Ebba Henrietta Munck of Fulkila, a woman of noble but not royal ancestry.

He then took the name of Bernadotte, the same as the founder of the Swedish royal line, a marshal of France under Napoleon. The first Bernadotte, Jean Baptista Bernadotte, later King Charles XIV is the great-great-grandfather of the present count.

The two royal princes, Gustaf Adolphus and Sigvard, are to go to Washington next Monday to meet President Coolidge and then will return to New York for a week before they return home.

Is Sir Turk Game? 'Axe Me,' He Says

By PAUL WHELTON

Barnyard circles were much stirred today when one of their number was interviewed and expressed full willingness to go to any one of the eight chairs set around in his honor Thursday by countless households.

"Now that you axe me," he said naively, "I might as well go out satisfying the public appetite as to go into senility and demise in a quiet, private way."

"Then you are not averse to publicity in the matter of your passing out?" he was asked.

"Not on your wishbone," he came back with a smart smirk. "Advertising is what has made us turkeys so prominent, and I have a certain pride in race.

"Remember what happened to Cock Robin? There was a wise bird! He butted the front end of an arrow years ago, but they are still asking the identity of the murderer. It takes a headliner—a bird with 'it'—to stick in the news that long."

"Then you won't show the white feather when you go on the block or otherwise take it in the neck?" the questioner queried.

"We young turks only have a chance to neck once," he replied wistfully. "It generally takes the first time, so I understand. Besides, I haven't had a chance to grow a white feather yet. I've been only a young fellow trying to get along and accumulate a little color."

"Well, touching on incidentals to your leading role on Thursday, how do you look upon possible inhibitions as accompaniment?"

"Oh ho!"

"Don't chouf in serious matters."

"Who's choufing? That was only a slight scrab on the principal topic of this modern day. As a matter of fact, I'm on the fence—not on a rail fence, you understand, because I believe I have roosted musingly for the last time, but on a literal fence."

"Then you look upon liquor in a calm way?"

"Right! If a few sets of red wine wash down my white meat in an easier way, or if a couple of waves of muscatel make the dark meat any more pleasant—why should I stick my claw in the personal affairs of a broad-drinking—pardon me, I meant broad-thinking—nation?"

"And still Thursday they'll knock the stuffing out of you," the reporter mused.

"You're wrong," said the turk brightly, "they'll knock the stuffing into me. Tomorrow I'll be a kitchen canary in a big way."

"With all the fixings—eh?"

"You can't do any fixing in this case, brother. The tradition has gone too far."

"Well—cheerio!"

"Cheerio!"

FIREMEN HURT AS SLIDING POLE DROPS

Two Quincy firemen were injured in an unusual accident today, when the sliding pole in the West Quincy firehouse, dropped through to the basement, throwing them to the floor of the station.

The firemen, Edward Lane and James Connell, sustained severe bruises and contusions and both will be taken to their homes where they suffered the broken bones.

The men were responding to an alarm from Box 418 for a fire in the stone shed of L. J. White on Miller st., West Quincy. Second fireman had negotiated the pole safely from the sleeping quarters on the second floor, when Connell, followed by Lane, jumped on the pole platform. With a crash of rending timbers the pole dropped through the floor to the basement, hurling the two firemen several feet to fall near the wheels of the firefighting apparatus. Both were taken home.

The blaze was extinguished with a loss estimated at $1200, although for a time it was feared the home of City Tax Collector James B. White would be ignited.

GOODFELLOWS! THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY

"Will Santa Claus come to our house, Mamma?"

Many a sick mother, in homes touched with the cruel hand of adversity, will choke back tears as she bravely assures the little ones that Santa will surely call. Inwardly, her heart will be breaking over their pitiable plight.

But instances such as this will be rare if the Goodfellows of Greater Boston will co-operate with the Boston Evening American in dispensing cheer and comfort to the needy in our midst.

No Goodfellow could possibly see that his cup of Christmas happiness was complete if he realized he had neglected some poor, wearied mother, a hungry child or a sick father or son.

There are many in that unfortunate condition through no fault of their own. Now is the time to remember them—not when it is too late.

Many of the Goodfellows have already shown that they have not forgotten.

THAW IN SIGHT FOR THURSDAY

A Thanksgiving thaw, accelerated by showers and southerly winds, is the official long-range weather forecast for the coming holiday.

In the meantime, rising temperatures recorded early today in the Mississippi Valley are predicted to sweep eastward by tomorrow, accompanied by overcast skies through the day and probable rain at night.

New England struggled painfully out of the week-end icy grip over the past 24 hours, Boston enjoying a temperature seven degrees higher at 8 o'clock this morning than at the same hour yesterday.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair tonight; Wednesday partly cloudy with rising temperature, probably followed by rain Wednesday night and Thursday; diminishing northerly winds, becoming southerly, Thursday.

Athens, Greece, Nov. 27 (AP)—Capt. Hurley, Australian airman, whose plane, the Spirit of Australia, crashed here as it started for France, was admitted to a hospital today suffering from a slight head wound. The plane in which Hurley and two companions were making a round-trip Australia-England flight, was so badly damaged that it will not continue the flight.

OLD BUILDING AT PRINCETON BURNS

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 27 (AP)—The John C. Green School of Science, a three-story stone structure and one of the oldest buildings of Princeton University, was destroyed by fire today with a loss of $200,000.

The entire Princeton fire department was called and students volunteered and aided in fighting the blaze and in saving laboratory equipment, manuscript and other belongings of the professors.

GO ON NON-STOP HOP TO CUBA

Walkersville, Ont., Nov. 27—Lieut. Leonard S. Flo, a former United States army pilot, was winging his way today on a non-stop flight to Columbia Field, Havana.

He expects to make the flight of approximately 1800 miles in 18 or 20 hours, arriving in Cuba about 8 o'clock tonight.

He left Walker airport last night at 11:07. Flo planned to fly over Dayton and Cincinnati, O.; Atlanta, Ga.; Tampa and Key West, Fla.

WOMAN, 3 MEN IN CRASH

Three men and a woman were slightly injured in a collision of automobiles at Randolph and Centre aves., Milton, today. Both cars turned over.

Miss Genevieve Ryan, of Dorchester, was the sole occupant of one car. Arthur E. Gioiosaly of East Boston drove the other, in which were his brother Richard, and John Milano, of Revere.

All were taken to Milton Hospital where they were treated for bruises about the face, hands and body. Both cars were badly damaged.

WOMAN, 80, IS FIRE HEROINE

Brockton, Nov. 27—Several persons were saved from flames today through the efforts of an 80-year-old woman, when fire broke out in the dwelling at 124 Belleyne ave.

Mrs. Christina Degasie, up early to attend 6 o'clock mass at St. Rocco's church, discovered the fire and aroused the family of Mr. and Mrs. George Burgess on the first floor. She then called Mrs. Julie Jacobs and her eight-year-old daughter, Irene, who in turn awakened others on the second floor. All escaped safely and Mrs. Degasie then collapsed, being treated by a physician at the home of a neighbor.

The fire was caused by a bundle of rags which fell from the chimney into a pile of rubbish, causing damage estimated at $500.

WORLD COURT PLEA PUZZLES WASHINGTON

By KENNETH CLARK,
International News Correspondent.

Washington, Nov. 27—President Coolidge's belated and unexpected move to renew negotiations looking toward American entrance into the world court puzzled Washington today.

Administration Senators, even those ardently supporting the court proposal, do not see how American adhesion can be had unless the Senate or the powers backtrack on reservation number 5, attached as one of the conditions of acceptance of the court protocol.

This reservation provides the court may not render advisory opinions without consent of the United States on any dispute in which America has an interest. In the opinion of the powers, America thus would be given an absolute veto over advisory opinions, a privilege not accorded other adherents.

Its sponsors designed the reservation chiefly to prevent European interference in any disputes arising under America's interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine.

POWERS OBJECT

The Senate in January, 1926, approved the court protocol with five reservations. The following September the powers invited the United States to discuss interpretation of the fifth reservation. America declined.

Quite pointedly the powers, notably France and Great Britain, interposed objections to America's position and there the question has rested.

Senator Borah (Republican) of Idaho and others of the "irreconcilable group" have repeatedly declared the Senate will not modify the fifth reservation.

The powers, however, may come around to the American view by providing that unanimous consent must be obtained in the council of the League of Nations for the court to give an advisory opinion. The United States, though not in the league, would then be extended identical privileges with council members.

UP TO HOOVER

Such a scheme probably would be agreeable in Washington, as it is in line with the reservation. Few believe any of the negotiations can bear fruit before Mr. Coolidge leaves the White House. Thus, President-elect Hoover would be charged with constituting American adherence.

What motivated the President's effort caused considerable speculation today. The most general theory was that he designed it as a friendly gesture to clean up the problem before he steps out.

Thief Gives Back Stolen Coat; Buys Victim New Watch

Somerville police and court attaches gasped today at the quick and willing action of Frank Mullin, 28, of Massachusetts ave., in soothing the injured feeling of the man from whom he stole.

After pleading guilty to larceny of an overcoat and watch from Fred Brainard of Bow st., Somerville, last spring, Mullin stripped off the coat and handed it over to the rightful owner.

Then he took two policemen with him and tried to get the watch, which he had pawned. The pawnbroker had sold it, and so Mullin bought another, which Brainard admitted was as good, if not a little better, than the one he lost. Mullin will be sentenced tomorrow.

EX-BANK TELLER IS SEIZED IN $7000 THEFT

Charged with misapplication of funds in excess of $7000, Robert W. Hutchinson of Eastern ave., Lynn, a former teller of National Shawmut Bank of Boston, was arrested today by federal officers on a secret indictment.

Hutchinson is 28 and married. He resigned as teller of teh bank last February.

The arrest of another Lynn man, indicted in the same case, is expected.

UNITED FRUIT LINER PICKS UP 2 MEN ADRIFT

Capt. S. T. Barr, commanding the steamship San Bruno, radioed the United Fruit Company here that while proceeding from Boston to Havana he had picked up William Condor and George Woodside in their power boat, which had broken down off the Florida coast. Both men live in Miami. Capt. Barr notified Key West to send a coast guard cutter to take them off. The men had suffered from exposure and their power boat was abandoned.

LOWELL MAN FINED $500 FOR RUNNING LOTTERY

Lowell, Nov. 27 (AP)—Bernard L. Smith of this city was fined $500 in district court today, convicted of operating a lottery. Three other men, arrested when police raided Smith's headquarters, were acquitted. Smith's activities were said to have extended throughout New England.

TWO RAILROAD TIEUPS DELAY THOUSANDS

Several thousand Boston-bound commuters were delayed half an hour or more today on the Boston & Maine and Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroads, in the morning rush hour.

A locomotive drawing 78 freight cars went off the rails at Lowell Junction on the B. & M., blocking the Portland Division and seriously delaying local trains serving Malden, Melrose, Wakefield and other suburbs.

The tie-up one the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn was the third in three working days and was due to a breakdown of power on one of the electric trains a short distance from the Lynn terminal.

Only the trailer wheels of the B. & M. locomotive left the rails, but it was an hour before the trouble was remedied, and meantime all trains had to be routed over the outbond tracks.

About 16 trains both ways were affected, including three starting from Lawrence, two from Haverhill one from Georgetown and one Lowell-to-Salem train. It was estimated 2000 commuters were delayed.

The breakdown of the Lynn-to-Boston train on the "Narrow Gauge" line caused a complete tieup for nearly half an hour. Coming on top of serious delays Saturday and Monday, this drew a storm of angry complaints from patrons.

Approximately 125 passengers were on the train that went dead on the inbound track just after leaving Lynn. This affected service over the entire line between Lynn, Severe Beach and Boston, but caused no delays on the Wilmbrey circuit.

CHICAGO SCHOOLS FACE DEFICIT OF $12,000,000

Chicago, Nov. 27 (AP)—Chicago newspapers today said the city schools faced a deficit approximating $12,000,000, caused be financial troubles "inherited from previous administrations, coupled with tremendous loss in revenue this year from uncollectable taxes."

Some extra legal means of making current expenses must be found, it was pointed out, until more tax money becomes available about Feb. 15. Both the Tribune and the Herald and Examiner said the schools would not be closed.

Private funds from public-spirited citizens will be called on if necessary, the Examiner said.

JURORS REOPEN NORTH ADAMS RUM INQUIRY

The unfinished inquiry by a federal Grand Jury here into alleged liquor graft charges against public officials of North Adams was reopened today.

Nearly a score of witnesses arrived in Boston, accompanied by Berkshire County prosecutors, who will aid United States Attorney Frederick H. Tarr here in presenting "graft" evidence.

At the earlier sessions of the inquiry, two months ago, Tarr said the revelations would prove "a sorry mess" if the case developed along the line of testimony expected from the witnesses called.

That some witnesses, who had knowledge of conditions, failed to aid the Federal authorities after arrival here at that time was disclosed will, the indictment of one of their number on a perjury charge.

The identity of those who arrived today at the Federal building was kept secret. It is expected they will be segregated until called individually to testify.

Whether a recent shake-up in North Adams police force, involving the discharge of a police woman, has any bearing on resumption of federal action, has not been disclosed, but it is known that at the previous investigation several police officers were interrogated.

RUNS MILE IN BARE FEET TO RING IN FIRE ALARM

Aroused by the barking of his dog to find his house in Forest st., South Braintree, in flames, Angelo Grazzano rescued his family and ran a mile in bare feet to give the alarm at the nearest box today, only for the firemen to discover the house was soutside the water district.

After a stubborn struggle, the firemen extinguished the blaze with chemicals, with a loss estimated at $2000. Grazzano took his wife and seven children through a rear window in their nightclothing to the roof of a plazza and then carried them down to safety one by one.

YOUTH RETURNS, BUT MISSING WIFE IS SOUGHT

East Bridgewater, Nov. 27—Clyde Lothrop, 19, of Washington st., who, since November 15, has been scouting together with Mrs. Freda L. Jones, 35, of Plymouth st., Bridgewater, returned to his home today declaring he had fled for fear of her husband.

Lothrop told Chief of Police E. W. Russell he had gone to New York to work, after being told on November 14 by Mrs. Jones that her husband had a permit to carry a revolver and had threatened to "get" the youth. He said he read in the papers he was being sought. He was not held, but the police have a warrant for Mrs. Jones.

NAME COMMITTEE TO PICK NEW HAVEN HEAD

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—A committee of New Haven Railroad directors has been appointed to nominate a new president and report to the board at its January meeting.

The committee was appointed after the acceptance of the resignation of Edward F. Pearson, who sought relief from his duties because of ill health.

Wall Street hearts that E. G. Buckland, vice-president in charge of finance, is favored for the presidency by several directors because of the part he has played in building up the road in recent years.

DEFENDS "SECOND LOVE" WHO SLEW HUSBAND

Baltimore, Nov. 27 (INS)—Sobbing and near-stricken but still loyal to her second love, Mrs. Betty Beatin, a young mother, said today she would defend Frederick L. Ledbetter, who shot and killed her estranged husband, Thomas L. Beatin, Sunday morning.

Ledbetter, who employed Mrs. Beatin after she separated from her husband, a motion picture manager in Roselle Park, N. J., is in jail. He shot Beatin when the husband invaded an apartment here where Mrs. Beatin had been living.

NOBLE WOMAN, EDWARDS SAYS OF LOTTA

Maj.-Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, famous "Daddy" of the Yankee Division, says:

"Lotta Crabtree was one of the noblest characters in the history of American womanhood . . . The life story of such a woman cannot fail to hold the utmost interest for every one of us who is human."

"Daddy" Edwards is one of the administrators and trustees named for the once famous actress in her $4,500,000 will, in which she bequeathed $2,000,000 for the relief of sick and disabled war veterans.

LONG LEGAL BATTLE

With the filing of the will, there at once began one of the greatest of legal battles by "relatives" to break the instrument and gain a share of the fortune.

The trial developed into one of the most sensational in the country's history.

After more than four years of litigation, when the claims of no less than 87 contestants had been carefully weighed—and found wanting, Lotta Crabtree's will stood intact.

Lotta built up her fortune by hard work and studious application. When she retired from the stage in 1891, she had already amassed $2,000,000. She was rated as the richest actress of her day. Wise and timely investments added to her fortune.

DIED A SPINSTER

Lotta died rich and a spinster. How did she accumulate her vast riches?

Why did she never marry?

Her friends have attributed these results to the zealous watchfulness of her mother.

But the real story of Lotta's life is stranger than fiction.

Because of the tremendous interest which swept the Nation during the hectic days of the attempts to break her will, the Boston Evening American will reveal hitherto unknown secrets of the famous actress' life.

Beginning Monday, December 3, "The Rise of Lotta Crabtree" will depict her sorrows and triumphs, her heartaches and struggles. It will tell how she made her millions and became known as the richest actress of her time.

This life story, written by Constance Bourke, is the product of two years' search in the West and East, where Lotta won fame and fortune.

Watch for this wonderful feature —exclusively in the Boston Evening American—beginning Monday, December 3.

LINDY GIVES $5 TIP; NOW, WHY?

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 27 (INS)—Speculation was rife today when Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, just prior to hopping off for New York, received a telegram from New York which stirred him to the extent that he gave the messenger boy a $5 tip. He reached Nashville this afternoon.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 27 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, after a short delay because of unfavorable weather conditions, hopped off from an airport here at 9:47 a. m. today and headed in a northeast direction.

After circling the field, Col. Lindbergh disappeared from view, continuing his flight which, it was said yesterday, would take him to New York.

Lindbergh arrived here yesterday afternoon from San Antonio, Tex., en route from Mexico. He was noncommittal as to his present flight.

CONGRESS TO WAIT ON RADIO LEGISLATION

Washington, Nov. 27 (INS)—Congress is unlikely to undertake a general revision of the radio act at the coming session, in the opinion of Representative Wallace H. White (R.) of Maine, chairman of the House merchant marine committee.

Radio legislation, he said today, probably would be limited to the question of extending the life of the federal radio commission.

COUPLE NEAR DEATH AS AUTO SMASHES BEACON

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Coffey of Elm st., Belmont, narrowly escaped death early today when their sedan struck a traffic beacon at Harvard and Morton sts., Brighton, and then turned over. The beacon was knocked 15 feet.

Mrs. Coffey suffered injuries to her jaw. Coffey told police he was blinded by the lights of another car.

HUB-BOUND SHIP IN DISTRESS OFF SPAIN

London, Nov. 27 (AP)—A Lloyd's message from Corunna, Spain, today said that the American steamer Westpool, bound from Hamburg to Boston, lost her propeller at latitude 45.29 north, longitude 12 west. This would place the vessel about 225 miles northwest of Cape Finisterre, Spain.

The American steamer West Celeron was stated to be in communication with the Westpool and was proceeding to tow the stricken ship to port.

By International News Service

The world wide gales which struck Europe, Africa and the Philippines, devastating land properties and shipping, left a death toll which may exceed 200.

It is estimated that more than 100 persons were killed in Europe. The dead in the six Philippine provinces ravaged by a typhoon are put at from 43 to 100. Numerous small ships are missing and it is feared their crews perished.

Probably 300 persons were injured.

Between 30 and 35 ships of various sizes were wrecked, sunk or abandoned as derelicts.

DAMAGE $20,000,000

The property damage is roughly put at $20,000,000, but it may prove more or less when detailed advices are received from storm zones, some of which are still isolated.

Several thousand persons are homeless in the three vast gale areas.

Shipping has been demoralized. The Cunard liner Carinthia, which has just reached Liverpool, recorded intercepting 16 S O S calls.

The inbound White Star liner Cedric brought word of a gigantic tempest over the Atlantic which rocked even the mightiest of the ocean greyhounds.

English Channel traffic is being restored after a suspension because ships could not enter the Dieppe, Boulogne, Calais and Ostend harbors.

STEAMSHIPS LOST.

The German steamship Kate Grammerstott has foundered in the North sea, but the crew was saved.

An Italian steamship Salenta is believed to be lost with her crew.

The British steamship Nearth Abbey reported herself helpless off West Kapel.

The liner Lancastria was unable to enter Havre port because of the rough water.

In the Philippine storm zone native troops are on duty to prevent looting. A dozen small craft were sunk in Philippine waters.

100 Die as Floods Follow Storms in Western Europe

London, Nov. 27 (AP)—Floods today followed in the wake of a four-day gale which caused the loss of a score of vessels of substantial tonnages in western European waters and possibly took a toll of 100 lives.

From Belgium north to the Frisian islands, lowlands were flooded as the sea was driven in upon them by raging winds. Dykes and seawalls, buffeted by huge waves, gave way to the rush of waters.

Police, soldiers and civilians were working frantically in Antwerp to repair broken dykes there and on the opposite side of the Scheldt. Industrial plants in Hoboken and elsewhere were closed. Railroad bridges were damaged and telephone and telgraph lins down.

Cuxhaven roads, Germany, was full of disabled shipping. One incoming vessel reported that it had sighted five wrecks in the North sea. The liner Carinthia arriving at Liverpool, England, reported that it had picked up 16 S O S calls, all of which were subsequently cancelled.

The German schoolship Pommern, which left a derelict after all aboard had been rescued, was taken in tow and removed a danger to navigation.

The losses to Great Britain alone from the recent storms are estimated at more than a million pounds. This included damage to property ashore, to shipping and lifeboat services and the damage resulting from suspension of transport.

Storm Ruins Coffee Crop in Costa Rica

Panama, Nov. 27 (AP)—Dispatches from Costa Rica to the Star-Herald today said that the entire coffee crop in Cartago province and the surrounding region had been virtually ruined by a storm which stripped the trees of berries ready to be picked.

It was generally believed that the Government would have to postpone an $11,000,000 road building program to undertake reconstruction work and to help place small coffee growers on their feet.

ROYALTY ALL UNNOTICED AS OPERA IS BEING SUNG, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Jewels Sparkle on First Night at the Colonial

IS BOSTON UNTHRILLED BY Royalty's presence? Last evening at the Colonial, "Madame Butterfly" moved serenely on its way and no single liquid note was stilled or interrupted as the Infante and Infanta of Spain slipped into a darkened theater and so to the tier draped boxes reserved for their Royal Highnesses. Their coming was absolutely without ostentation. No single trumpet sounded. Their progress was not achieved in regal manner, and so into the discard go certain choice superlatives treasured for use on such an occasion.

ONE WOULD, FOR INSTANCE, prefer to say that for three glowing hours Boston basked in the effulgence that radiated from Royal Highnesses who sit close to thrones. That the Colonial Theater was in miniature an opera house, warm with heady scents; sparkling with jewels out of family strong boxes and alive with the rustle and swish of fine fabrics and sumptuous furs. But truth to tell, the audience at the Colonial last evening for the American Opera Company's "Madame Butterfly" was merely a "first night" gathering and never a thrill did Royalties from Spain have for the smart ones there.

OF COURSE, JEWELS SPARKLED HERE AND THERE. RICH furs were worn. Lovely gowns made radiant splashes of color. Boston was more or less on parade and evidenced a well bred interest in distinguished personages, local and visiting, who filled two guest boxes. Dona Beatrix in black velvet was regal as could be, the storybook conception of royalty sumptuously arrayed and wearing a diadem of diamonds in platinum. The Dona Petronelade Esandona Salamanna, petite and raven tressed, swathed herself in a velvet robe bright as a Spanish sunset, and Mrs. Alvan Fuller, handsome and gracious, was in dark green velvet, with pearls and diamonds.

THE MASCULINE ELEMENT PREDOMINATED IN THE ROYAL boxes where waved the flags of Spain of America and of the State. Augustus John, the portrait painter, was in the company. Grafton Cushing, of course, was there. The Infante and his son, and Major Walter Merriam Pratt were sufficiently decorative in their formal linen and broadcloth. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich gave the audience something of a grand opera atmosphere. They've always been intensely interested in the Vladimir Rosing troupe, for its Boston appearances as well as when the bijou operas were given in Stillington Hall's picturesque surroundings. Mrs. Goodrich was handsome in her velvet gown and a stunning wrap of metal cloth in green and gold. Mrs. Barrett Wendell's black velvet and diamonds, and Miss Rose Dexter's blue brocade were handsome ensembles in a stage box.

FOR REGAL BEARING AND SCINTILLANT GEMS MRS. CHARLES SUMNER BIRD, Jr., is a shining example. She and Mrs. John Parker shared sartorial honors in one of the second tier boxes. Both wore pastel tinted frocks, laces and chiffons in the soft pinks and yellows that come with the flush of dawn. Mrs. Bird's jewels were diamonds, a necklet of square stones and pendant earrings that sparkled joyously. Mrs. Francis Appleton wore pearls with her velvet gown and gray fox furred wrap. Mrs. George Dabney's wrap was metal brocade; Miss Suzanne Dabney was wrapped in a striking black and white velvet and white fox, and Mrs. William Mixter wore a red wrap to temper the brisk November breeze.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN E. THAYER HAD PLACES IN THE AUDIENCE. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Woods were there. Mrs Homer B. Richardson was in the orchestra. Miss Natalie Merrill, slim and girlish in metal cloth of silver, was in a box party for the company's Boston opening. Miss Gabriella Ladd came with her father, Dr. Maynard Ladd. Mrs. Cecil Butler wore a blue frock with metal wrap. Mrs. Henry F. Colt was a petite figure in a pastel taffeta. Mrs. Benjamin F. Pitman's brilliantly-tinted wrap might have been something she brought home from a recent trip to South America, so gorgeous were its colorings.

SAXOPHONES WAIL ON WEDNESDAY FOR THE BUD AND HER beau. Way into the holiday's earliest hours, when good citizens of workaday proclivities are snatching some final winks, the gay young things will dance. Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Leland provide the party and Miss Laidlia Leland is the debutante of the family for whom the music, the decorations and the Somerset's ballroom all are corraled. It will be one of "the" parties of the season, wisely placed in the debutante calendar on the Holiday Eve, so that the stag line will be of more than usually enormous proportions.

FRIDAY, LIKEWISE, IS PARTICULARLY AND EMPHATICALLY of buddish flavor. Mrs. William Lowell Putnam and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sturgis have a charming debutante whose way through a First Winter must be attuned to brilliance. A large ball at the Somerset for Miss Josephine Sturgis looms impressively on the program and fills the after holiday Friday with the sort of frivolity the young set dotes on. Miss Sturgis is one of the buds making a royal progress, having charming things done for her by relatives of high degree

IN SOCIAL SWIM

Miss Barbara Welch is a fetching debutante in a fetching frock of figured taffeta.

THE CHRISTOPHER SHOP SNATCHES UP FOR ITS SPECIAL illumination one of the season's brightly shining lights. Some social lions arrive in the stereotyped way, by steam or motor, with welcoming committees to do them honor. Lady Heath drops from the skies in a graceful, gradual swoop in up-to-the-moment locomotion, and then swirls into a round of teas, luncheons, dinners and functions that inevitably surround the visiting lions whom society loves to hear roar. Officialdom will smile on the lady during her stay. Society will contribute trimmings, and the Christopher Shop will benefit greatly—all of which will wreathe in smiles the countenances of Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Pitman, Mrs. Horace Morison, Mrs. Wilbur Grant, et cetera.

SPEAKING OF THE DEBUTANTES, MISS BARBARA WELCH, daughter of Mrs. Roger Wolcott, Jr., is one of the bright young things whose decorative qualities are notable. Miss Welch had a formal presentation early in the season at the Essex County Club soon after the family came back from a summer in Europe.

Finds New Food for Diabetes Treatment

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Correspondent.

Washington, Nov. 27—Discovery of a new food believed to be useful in the treatment of diabetes was announced today by the United States Bureau of Standards, through the American Chemical Society.

Xylose, or wood sugar, obtained by chemists from peanut shells and cottonseed bran, both waste products, may prove a new food for diabetes sufferers, according to Dr. Warren E. Emley of the Bureau of Standards.

The bureau is investigating also the possibility or substituting xylose for glucose for the spinning of rayon and weighting of leather, but as yet there is no method of production of this wood sugar commercially.

While experimentation in mixed acids is being conducted by Dr. Emley. He described "xylotrihydroxyglutaric" acid, a "relative" of the new sugar, as making "very good lemonade."

"With the present enormous consumption of soft drinks there should be a good market for this acid," Emley said, "indicating that synthetic soft drinks are possible the same as synthetic intoxicants."

Treat Colds 2 Ways With One Treatment

(1) It is vaporized by the body heat and inhaled direct to the inflamed air passages, and

(2) It stimulates the skin like an old-fashioned poultice and "draws out" the soreness.

SAYS DOCTORS MUST MAKE $4 LOWEST FEE

"The time must come when $4 will be the smallest fee accepted by a doctor," said Dr. Charles P. Atwood, secretary of the Arlington Doctors' Club, in a defense today of the club's fee table which is under fire by the State commission on the necessaries of life.

An investigation of the fees, which affect Arlington and Lexington, was begun today by the commission on the ground that the matter concerns the health of families.

"The only person the doctor has any desire on is the fellow who drives a nice big car but is unwilling to pay his bills," said Dr. Atwood.

"We certainly do not intend to make it a hardship for anyone to procure the services of a doctor. Doctors have always been the hardest workers and the poorest paid men in their community. Those who cannot pay our rates will be permitted to pay according to their means, but those who can pay will be compelled to do so."

Ernest Cutter of Massachusetts ave., East Lexington, who made the complaint to the State Commission, said he could afford to pay the fees himself but was fighting for the interests of those who could not.

Cutter cited a case of a married man with two children who had to go to work nights to make enough to meet a doctor's bill for illness in his family and worked himself to the verge of a complete breakdown.

The fee table that caused the complaint follows: Day house visits, $4; evening, $5; night, $10. Office calls or advice by telephone or letter, $3; obstetrical, $50; operations, major, $100 to 500; minor, 10 to $100.

LUNAR ECLIPSE FAIRLY BRIGHT, SAYS FISHER

Those interested in the moon will do so tonight. But another record for punctuality was recorded by astronomers as the earth's shadow waved good-bye for two years.

At 3:33½ a. m. the country was in total darkness, the earth having completely hidden the moon from the sun. This produced a yellow crescent with a pink circle at 3:47½ as the earth's shadow moved slowly away. Towards the center of the shadow or inside, as the astronomers say, were specks of copper color.

"This was all visible to the naked eye," said Prof. Willard J. Fisher, of Harvard Observatory. "I have a faultless alarm clock that awakened me at ten minutes of three.

"Thanks to a hole in the cloud, I first saw the eclipse four minutes after totality.

"I watched until ten minutes of five, the middle of the eclipse, when the moon began to brighten as the disc of the earth's shadow moved away.

"On the whole it was an ordinary eclipse, fairly bright."

BYRD PARTY TO LEAVE FOR BAY OF WHALES

Wellington, New Zealand, Nov. 27 (AP)—Commander Richard E. Byrd and 50 members of his Antarctic expedition are planning to leave Dunedin on Friday directly for the Bay of Whales if ice reports from whalers now in Ross sea are favorable. They will sail in the City of New York.

The Eleanor Bolling, the commander's other vessel, will make two trips to the South carrying supplies and will remain at Dunedin for the winter. Early next summer she will leave with fresh provisions for the ice party.

Judge Cites Bible Story and Clears Two in Court

Lawrence, Nov. 27—A young man and woman, accused in district court today of selling innerspace literature, can thank the Bible for their freedom. They were haled into court by agents of the Watch and Ward Society.

After reading three stories from the magazines in question, Judge Frederic N. Chandler produced the court Bible. He quoted liberally from a story in it relative to a "chaste wife" and indicated that it was no more improper than the tales contained in the magazine the couple sold. He thereupon freed them.

PANAMA TO HONOR ROOSEVELT'S MEMORY

Panama, Nov. 27 (AP)—President Arosemena approved a Congressional measure under which the memory of Theodore Roosevelt will be perpetuated in Panama by the naming of a plaza for him. The plaza was formerly named in honor of Count de Lesseps, the French canal constructor.

The bill also provides for the erection of a statue of Roosevelt in the plaza, the cost to be defrayed by popular subscription and government funds.

FRANCE WON'T GIVE BLACKMER UP TO U. S.

Paris, Nov. 27.—France, on the advice of the court of indictment today, decided not to honor the extradition request of the United States for H. M. Blackmer, missing Teapot Dome witness.

His delivery to American officers was sought on an indictment charging him with making false income tax returns at Denver, Col.

Blackmer was immediately ordered liberated. The French Government attorney advocated refusal of the extradition on the ground that the offense was primarily political.

"Would you consent to return to the United States?" Blackmer was asked by the court.

"I refuse to return to the United States," replied the American.

Maitre Auscon, defending Blackmer, made a statement saying:

"Blackmer is the victim of an American newspaper campaign. United States officers employed illegal methods in stealing his passport, thus holding him in France."

UNCLE SAM TO FINGERPRINT ALL EMPLOYES

Women are included in an order issued today by the U. S. Civil Service bureau in Boston to all its New England branches requiring fingerprint records of prospective federal employes of all classes.

Ostensibly to weed criminals from the field of Government service, the order extends the fingerprint practice from its previous application to the Postoffice Department, only, to every branch of federal employment under civil service supervision.

That fingerprint records have proved their worth in the postal service is attester by Chief Postal Inspector Paris B. Colvin, in charge of the New England area.

"We were surprised to discover," Colvin declared today, "criminals with long records seeking and gaining admission to Postoffice Department employment.

"Scores of habitual criminals, under assumed names, were detected in responsible positions by the use and subsequent comparison of fingerprint records."

In the circular order sent throughout the larger New England cities today by Ernest Reynolds, secretary of the Boston civil service bureau, both male and female applicants for Government jobs must undergo the fingerprint ordeal.

Reynolds declared the order would be applicable to rural postmasters, clerks and carriers, as well as to applicants for position under the Treasury Department.

"We aim to include everyone under the order," he declared, "and to extend our fingerprint requirements into branches of federal service not hitherto required to submit to the process."

GOODFELLOWS CAN AID MANY NEEDY ONES AT CHRISTMASTIDE

gotten that it is more blessed to give than receive. Their response to the annual appeal of the Boston Evening American was immediate and encouraging. But more Goodfellows are needed to spread the joy of Christmas in hundreds of needy homes. Let everyone help to make this Christmas a banner one in Greater Boston.

MANY ARE NEEDED

Goodfellows of the past years are needed—and an army of newcomers. You cannot muster in too great numbers for the drive against sadness and heartache, on what should be the happiest day of the year.

In more homes than the average man can have knowledge of, the Yuletide happiness is a complete stranger.

Won't you be a Santa Claus? Or at least give Santa a helping hand?

There isn't much to be done in order to be a Goodfellow. The money consideration is small. The time element is infinitesimal when you measure it against happiness.

This is the Goodfellow plan of the Boston Evening American, a plan that is plain and simple.

Every day hundreds of letters are received by the Boston Evening American from fathers, mothers and children asking that the Christmas season be made happy for them by the gang of Goodfellows.

FILL OUT BLANK

If you want to be a Goodfellow for one or more families, write immediately to the Goodfellow Editor of the Boston Evening American and fill out the blanks published with this article. State, if you wish, the district of Boston or any city, or the section of a town, in which you would like to be a Goodfellow.

The Goodfellow Editor will then send you the names and letters of the needy and you can have the hearty satisfaction of learning of what is needed, buying it yourself and delivering it, too.

Think of the joy of being a real Santa Claus yourself.

If you cannot give the time to the buying and delivering, the Goodfellow Editor will be glad to attend to it for you.

WRITE AT ONCE

Just send him your ideas and your orders, your selection of special district for your case or cases, and he will carry out everything just as you wish and confidentially, too.

Write today to the Goodfellow Editor, Boston Evening American, Washington sq., Boston. Tell him what you wish to do, what size family or families you wish to provide for and he will forward one or more of the pathetic letters of appeal that he is receiving every day from those who deserve.

Don't forget. Write or fill in the blank NOW.

Be a Goodfellow.

SAYS GIFFORD RETURNED $11,400

New Bedford, Nov. 27—How Charles H. Gifford, former treasurer and tax collector of the town of Westport, made restitution of $9,$11,409 shortage two years ago was testified today by Town Auditor John Allen in Superior Court, where Gifford is on trial for alleged larcenies totaling $12,0.0 from the town.

"In October, 1926, I discovered a shortage of about $11,000," testified Allen. "I was greatly surprised and told Gifford, suggesting an examination of the books by a private accountant.

"Gifford had this examination made and it developed that the shortage was $11,400. Restitution was made by Gifford in six payments. The trouble was there was less money in the bank than the tax records called for."

Two town employes, Nathaniel Haskell and Manuel da Luiz, told of having Gifford deduct amounts from their weekly salaries to cover their taxes. They said they never received any receipts.

Affidavits were submitted today from scores of taxpayers who, it is alleged, have receipted tax bills but who are not recorded on the books as having paid, according to the government. This was done to avoid the necessity of hearing testimony from all the 150 taxpayers who were summoned as witnesses.

2 MYSTERIOUS MEN BIND AND GAG BOY

Bound and gagged and tossing a galaxy of blows No more? one attacked and tied him up, Heyserdi Albert D'Marco was found in the cellar of his home in Revere by relatives, today, under mysterious circumstances.

The boy had been sent to the cellar by his mother to sift ashes.

Less than half an hour after he had descended to the cellar, his grandmother, Mrs Esther D'Marco, 64, who was seated in the kitchen with Esther D'Marco, 6 and Antonio D'Marco, 4, heard moans from downstairs.

She put down the children and went into the cellar. Albert was lying on the floor, his ankles and wrists tied tightly with rope and his face handkerchief muffled to a gag.

The grandmother screamed and fainted. Her screams attracted the boy's mother, Mrs. Mary D'Marco, who was on the second floor.

She raced downstairs with Miss Mary Tatonne, 18, of Oxford pl., Revere, her morning helper—and both became hysterical. Their screams attracted neighbors, and the police were notified.

Motorcycle Officer Arthur W. Sweeney and Patrolman Philip Gallo in the sidecar, arrived and untied the boy.

He said that a short time after he went to work on the sales, two "big, tall men, bigger than my father" slipped into the cellar, bound and gagged him, then bound his ankles and wrists.

When he questioned in their arms from fright the boy said, he heard one of the men whisper, "We'd better get out of here."

Neighbors told of seeing two tall men enter a taxicab a short distance from the D'Marco home.

According to the officers, the rope binding the boy was fastened in sailor's knots that could not have been executed by the youth.

The reason for the new Chevrolet

A STATEMENT of General Motors' policy
by ALFRED P. SLOAN, JR., President

THERE is an attitude in General Motors which is characterized by the phrase: "Facts and the Open Mind." It accepts nothing as final. It welcomes every new idea, and—by incessant research and test—produces continuous progress.

This attitude extends throughout our organization. In every division there is continuous improvement. And these improvements are not held back from the public. When they are proved they are passed on promptly.

The New Chevrolet is a superb example. During the first nine months of 1928 more than 1,000,000 Chevrolets were sold—a record for all time. Never were models more popular. Never was there a business which could have gone forward more safely without any material change.

Yet we have made a most sweeping change. Having passed the million mark in Chevrolet production, we were able to realize the dream of years: a six-cylinder car, with Fisher Body style, within the price range of the four.

There was no question of waiting for the current models to exhaust their appeal. The improvements were possible. The public had made them possible by the volume of its patronage. The public was entitled to the improvements promptly.

This is the spirit which lies behind the New Chevrolet. It is more than a 6-cylinder car. It is a wholly new creation. It is the triumph of a policy built upon a keen realization that the most valuable asset in business is continuous good-will.

$1,000,000 TO GLORIA CARUSO

Trenton, N. J. (AP)—Gloria, [illegible] young daughter of the late Enrico Caruso, today was awarded two-thirds of the royalties, now estimated to approximate $1,000,000, from the reproduction of her father's voice on Victor talking machine records.

By a decree of the Italian courts Gloria was awarded one-half of the New Jersey estate, in litigation for several years.

The remaining one-third is divided among Mrs. Dorothy P. B. Caruso, Giovanni Caruso, a brother of the late tenor Enrico Caruso, Jr., and Rodolphe Caruso, sons.

"An amendment to the decree of the Italian court is truly astonishing," the chancellor wrote in his opinion. "It breathes defiance to the court of chancery of New Jersey, and declares that it will retaliate and enforce the distribution which it has decreed out of the estate, unless it controls so as to make up [illegible] those denied."

In a previous decree, the [illegible] court fixed $12,000 annually, pending outcome of this litigation, for Gloria's maintenance.

Sports Go On | Those Goal Posts
No Rest for Fans | May Go Back
Like Stock Market | Horween Waits

By NICK FLATLEY

SPORT NOW 12-MONTH PROPOSITION

AFTER Saturday's wild conflict slides into history, we come upon the stretch that used to be a time of rest for the sport fan. The boys who pay the tariff and do the cheering used to get a chance to rest up from December through to March. But no more. Professional hockey has come along to fill two or three evenings each week.

The fight game has grown, so that the sportively inclined can find a row almost any time—a row to watch, we mean. And Gus Sonnenberg has made wrestling a big card in this sector. Now, too, the runners are turning pro, and putting on acts that get the gangs.

Nick Flatley

Nurmi is coming here, and will undoubtedly be hooked up with Joie Ray in a series of jaunts that will stir up the red-blooded populace. College and club hockey, post-season football, baseball trades, track meets, and a dozen other things keep the pot boiling, with never a let up

Sport of the big kind has become a 12 months a year proposition and the chronic fan lives a rapid life. Which is American and perfectly satisfactory to everybody. This sporting racket is like the stock market. For years now, the pessimists have been yelling that the fan bankroll would not stand the strain; that the promoters were killing the golden goose.

The answer continues to be bigger crowds and larger gates. It was openly announced that the retirement of Tunney would be the big money end of the fight game. Yet the good battlers are getting plenty these days, and Jack Dempsey is coming out of his shell because he knows that one more appearance will mean another of those million-dollar gates.

And, while we think of it has anybody heard the once famous Mister Tunney mentioned in the past month or so. Oblivion gets them more quickly in sport than in any other line.

POST SEASON GAMES ARE LIKE SECOND SERVINGS OF SOUP. TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING.

The fighting on the grid is over, but the fighting about it will last all year.

FANS WANT GOAL POSTS MOVED BACK

THIS is the letter writing time of the year. The boys take their stenographers in hand, or anyhow, sit down and dictate things. They babble about football champions, and All-America backs. They tell you that you can't figure Boston College in, and also that you can't leave it out.

They grow heated explaining that Al Weston is the greatest quarterback in the land, and equally fervid showing that Mister Harpster of Carnegie Tech is the daddy of all the signal callers. And so on and so.

And a lot of them talk about the goal posts. The boys, from what we can gather, want the sticks—or steels as they are nowadays—moved back to the goal line. That ten-yard gap removes a lot of the illusions for the old football fans. And the game, as you know, is made up of illusions.

There may be good reason for keeping the posts removed from the actual battlefield, but the fans don't seem to think so. The rules as they stand have weaknesses, but the principal kick is about the famous uprights. The rabid objectors claim that there isn't even as much fun pulling them down, as there used to be. In a symbolic sense, they don't mean anything.

So much chatter has been stirred up about this particular point that we believe it might be a good idea for all the fans to write letters. Then, if the evidence was conclusive, one way or the other, it might be forwarded to the rules committee.

If you have any feelings, write them to the Sporting Editor. Chance to see your name in print, and perhaps help to make a change back that will help the spectacular side of the game. For the field goal is almost a lost art.

And the best letter will win the writer a pair of ringside seats for the first big show of the New Year at the Garden.

SEVERAL THOUSAND HARVARD MEN GOT THEIR H WHEN THEY ARRIVED HOME FROM NEW HAVEN

The thousand players were not the only ones who staggered. When they called it the Bowl, they said something.

NO MATTER WHO COACHES HARVARD IS SET

HARVARD very sensibly puts off any official coaching announcement until the New Year. Arnold Horween, vindicated after a couple of tough years, has gone back to Chicago. He can come back, and will be welcomed wildly if he does.

But he has enormous business interests at home, and, in addition, is taking unto himself a Mrs. Horween this week. Wives, especially brides, do not like to read harsh criticisms of their husbands. The coach has had so much panning, and perhaps Arnold will be content to rest on his glorious laurels. Last Saturday was enough triumph for any one coach.

Whoever takes the Crimson next spring will have plenty of material. A better squad than turned out this year. And, just as important, the right kind of spirit.

Fine Material Left at Harvard for '29

FROSH, SUB MATERIAL STRONG

Seven of 1928 Bowl Starters Return; Wealth of Backfield Candidates for Eleven

By TED LYNCH

Football material, of unusual quality will greet Arnold Horween, or whoever may be the next Harvard football coach, when the Crimson 1928 football candidates turn out next fall.

With nine lettermen and an exceptional freshman squad as a nucleus, Harvard has the makings of a great football eleven, the type which existed under the Percy Haughton regime.

If this material is all that it seems to be, and there is every indication that it is, Harvard's winning path will be a long one.

Seven of Harvard's 1928 Yale game starters will be available to tackle the Elis on the Stadium sward next fall. Add to these a wealth of varsity substitutes and an unfortunated freshman team which is the most versatile material in [illegible] to visualize another [illegible] Haughton teams.

HORWEEN DESERVES WINS

[illegible] might more [illegible] Arnold Horween [illegible] the Army [illegible] of tough [illegible] to pass at Har[illegible]

[illegible] ing games across [illegible] he certainly deserves [illegible] next Harvard [illegible] destined to gather.

[illegible] Harvard football [illegible] and, one finds that [illegible] not asking in one [illegible] department of its football [illegible] It has everything that a [illegible] and something more.

[illegible] three real football [illegible] Captain Artie Pence, [illegible] and Frank Pickard. All will be missed but not for long with the abundant material coming up from the freshman team.

MANY BACKFIELD STARS

For the backfield Horween will have the unfortunate Tommy Gilligan and all set in the bud; Arthur Hawkes, Willy Harper, Winsor Grant, Tommy Mason, Sam Batchelder, Al Bowers and Greeley [illegible] the present squad.

The 1928 squad sends up Frenchy Bowser, Crichard, Mann, White, and Charley Stevens. It certainly will be a tough assignment picking a starting four out of this array. Al Reed, End Coach Eddie Bradford, who is slated to return, has Jack Gwynne and Jim Douglas, assistant fullbacks, and Bob Ogden and Baldwin from the varsity.

Young Jack Record from the freshman team is the best looking end at Harvard for some time and is bound to beat out one of the above aforemen.

BARRETT BACK

Al Tackle Red Barrett is again available with Tom Mack, Red Pinkerson and Faxon fighting for Tim Clark's post. Finlayson, a whale of a fellow is likely to play most of the game with Barrett next fall.

Jim Trainer and Hal Tickner starters in the Yale game are again ready for guard duty. Both will be available for the limit by Myerson, Brookline high player.

At center there should be a three cornered fight among Ken Tickner and Henry Gildea and Tiny Cunningham from the freshman team. Tickner graded the berth the first injured Gildea and intends holding the post for the next two years.

Taken all in all, Harvard will have a raft of material to work with next fall. Horween? will have the platter served to him brim full.

PENN STATE QUINTET WILL PLAY 19 GAMES

State College, Pa., Nov. 27—A trip through the Middle West during the Christmas vacation is included in the schedule arranged for the coming season for the Pennsylvania State College basketball team.

The Lions will play Detroit, Northwestern, Michigan and Michigan State on that trip. The Navy returns to the Lion schedule this season. The complete schedule includes 19 games.

Posse Loses

The Posse Nissen senior basketball team lost its first game in the interclass series to the freshman sextet by a score of 19 to 18.

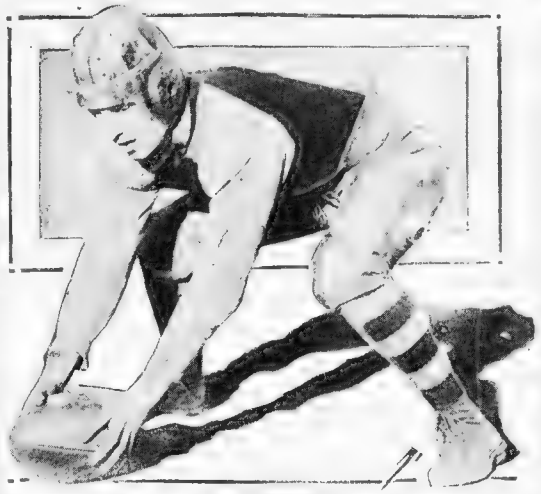
Miss O'Neil was the outstanding scorer for the first year girls, while the work of Miss McCarthy for the seniors was the feature of the losers' playing.

Sonny Wins

Lawrence, Nov. 27—Ned Maguire of Ireland was no match for Gus Sonnenberg when the pair met at the Winter Garden here in the main event on a wrestling program of three bouts.

The Good Fellow season is here.

CLASSY PIVOT OF MECHANICS



JOHN CONNELL

This young man is one of the finest centers of the year in school ranks. He can pass well and has a lot of pep on the offense, and is great at smashing through the enemy interference to tackle the runner.

REAL INDIAN ON SPRINGFIELD CAN.-AM. SIX

Springfield Indians will be led by a real Indian when they come to Boston Arena Saturday night to meet the Bees or Tigers in a game which probably will settle for awhile the leadership of the Canadian-American Hockey League.

Elmer Bud Marsolo, also known as chief and more a Sioux Indian and one of the biggest men in professional hockey, has been selected captain of the Springfield team.

INDIAN AT CENTER

He is playing center ice for the synthetic Indians for the third successive year, and his pressure checking and scoring ability have largely responsible for the Canucks' big league championship in the past two seasons and the present undefeated status of the Warriors.

Marsolo is backed up by a powerful combination, including Paiement, Culligan and Laurie Scott who played with New York Rangers last season; Everett McGowan, former Canadian speed skating champion; Yip Foster and Scotty Cawkell, former Canadian rugby stars, and "Sparky" Vail, one of the most fiery attackers in hockey.

TIGERS IN SHAPE

The Tigers came out of their Saturday night game with New Haven's powerful Eagles without injury and with firm confidence that they can break Springfield's string of victories.

In case Philadelphia is beaten by Providence tomorrow night leadership in the Can.-Am. circuit will hinge on the fill between the Tigers and Indians.

MAL STEVENS BACK IN MEDICAL SCHOOL AT YALE

New Haven, Nov. 27—Mal Stevens, Yale football coach, has forgotten all the cares and worries of the gridiron season and is returned to his studies as a student at the Yale Medical School.

Stevens remains silent concerning the defeat of Yale after one of the most disastrous football seasons on record here.

Hockey at Vermont

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 27—At a recent meeting of the athletic council of the University of Vermont it was voted to authorize hockey as a regular sport.

A fenced hockey rink, graded and banked, has been built during the last few weeks and will afford a permanent place for practice and games.

Vermont Basketball

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 27—The University of Vermont basketball candidates have got away to an early start under the direction of Coach Claire Cayward and will hold regular evening practice sessions for the remainder of this month.

Snow Slows

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 27—A snow-covered practice field drove the Cornell football squad indoors for the last two drills before the players entrain tonight for Philadelphia where on Franklin Field Thursday afternoon, Cornell closes its season against Philadelphia.

Horween Uncertain as to Return in '29

Chicago, Nov. 27—Arnold Horween, Harvard football coach, returning to his home here, revealed that he has been asked to return to the Cambridge campus next year to coach the Crimson for a fourth successive season.

This statement refutes recent rumors that the Chicago man would be deposed this year and succeeded by Eddie Casey, former all-American back at Harvard, and now the Harvard freshman mentor.

Horween, himself a star [illegible] years, stated that [illegible] to see at this time whether [illegible] accept the position again next [illegible] "It's not a case of [illegible] to or not, for as matters [illegible] not know at this [illegible] will be able to [illegible] for another year.

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

Some 12,000 fans will attend the Bruins-Pittsburgh game tonight at the Boston Garden, but it is doubtful if there will be the confusion that marred the opening game last week.

The congestion was caused by the public's unfamiliarity with the Garden. There are two main entrances at the Garden, one on each end of the building. The fans can avoid getting into a jam by using both entrances.

A week ago most of [illegible] tempted to enter [illegible] entrance directly opposite [illegible] station elevated [illegible] got wise with the [illegible] Causeway [illegible] Garden to purchase [illegible] the game was an absolute [illegible] caused all of the congestion.

Now fans who want to avoid being crushed will remember that there is an entrance on the Nashua st. end of the Boston Garden.

The Tigers have a tough assignment for Thanksgiving night when they meet the Springfield Indians. Manager Frank Carrol disposed of some of his best talent last spring, but the Rangers have handed him some fine youngsters and he has them stepping at a winning gait.

The Bruins are home for a long stay and after they have recovered from the effects of their recent road trips, they will get down to hard work at the Garden.

Myles Lane broke into professional hockey in New York against Pittsburgh and made a decided hit with the fans. Lane must [illegible] at home playing against the Pirates for he knew Odie Cleghorn's [illegible] when they were supposed to be amateurs.

Now that Sprague Cleghorn has affiliated himself with the Newark club of the Can.-Am. League, it is very probable that Les Canadiens will use the Bulldog outfit as their farm. Cleghorn is very close to the Canadiens management and Leo Dandurand and Joe Leteneur would give Cleghorn the first call on all spare talent.

There are few N. H. L. managers drawing down the salary Sprague Cleghorn is getting at Newark. It cost the Newark club $20,000 to get Henry William Sprague Cleghorn's on the dotted line, but a safer investment was never made in any branch of sports.

In less than two seasons [illegible] Roop has developed [illegible] manager and pilot [illegible] ton Garden. Although [illegible] to the Lions in [illegible] years of [illegible] Dartmouth [illegible] an all-star [illegible] mysteries of ice-making [illegible] three winters in [illegible] Hooque was produced a mauna cum laude degree in the frigid art.

Any hockey player who insists upon carrying a chip on his shoulder is skating to a fall and a hard one. Frank Peters of the Arrows was a quiet and inoffensive player with the Maples but he has changed his tactics and appears to be on his way to take over Bill Cowin's bad man crown. Pete is going to find himself in plenty of trouble this winter unless he soon sees the light.

DRUGGISTS DECLARE HEMORRHOID REMEDY WORKS WONDERS

Hemorrhoids Are Relieved Quick by Simple Method

WHAT ONE DRUGGIST SAYS ABOUT THE REMEDY

"I'm a druggist myself and when I say this new treatment of getting rid of hemorrhoids is best I know for I suffered myself for twelve years and during that time tried everything on the shelf," declares Robert Higgins, Ph. G.

"One of the clerks in the store told me how wonderfully these Colac Pile Pills had helped his wife, so I took a bottle home because I was suffering terribly at that time and I want to say they are the finest remedy for this painful affliction I ever heard of, and I often recommend them to customers," continued Mr. Higgins, Druggist in Corinth, N. Y. Local Druggists here are featuring Colac Pile Pills. Thousands of tests prove this new treatment most effective for real and lasting results.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

A famous chemist asked himself one day: Why can't I cast a pill with a substance impervious to gastric juices so it will pass through the stomach into the bowels and then dissolve and release a combination of healing, soothing herbs that reach the real seat of all the trouble—remove the exposed nerve, quickly banish Hemorrhoids? Colac Pile Pills are the final result of his research and it certainly is nice to know that at last no matter how long or severely one has suffered, they can forget nasty salves, suppositories, etc., and enjoy the benefits of this simple, harmless, scientific method. If you, male or female, man and women troubled with hemorrhoids sit, walk and sleep in comfort without pain in a few hours in many instances and report complete relief in a few days. Colac Pile Pills are made in the world's largest laboratory of finest ingredients. Several local druggists offer to gladly refund the 75 cents a regular bottle costs if they fail to relieve completely, even the worst or chronic case. Certainly no one, young or old, should suffer another day. Just a couple tablets with swallow of water at meal time for a few days. If your own drug store hasn't Colac Pile Pills, send 75c to Colac Chemical Co., Brentwood, Md., with name and address for full size bottle, 60 tablets, plain wrapper, full directions, return mail.

ABOARD the Maryland. Broadcast through H A T. National Insomnia Hour.

Under auspices of Nitro-Cellulose Biscuit Company.

Mr. Hoover and Ambassador Fletcher were to executive session all morning. It might have been international affairs and it might have been a tip on Admiral Cary Grayson's new boss.

First stop at Honduras. Newspapermen are trying to borrow some epaulets.

One thousand sailors were put through hour's good-will drill.

Then black gang was called up for short course in public speaking.

Gun crew ordered out for instruction in lapel-grabbing and other forms of good-will.

Officers were ordered to shake hands with each other for two days.

Seven sailors in the crow's-nest have had their arms extended toward the horizon all day.

They do not see anything. They are just pointing with pride.

This is Oscar speaking. We will now turn the microphone over to Graham McCracken.

Here comes the Maryland now—Mr. Hoover and Ambassador Fletcher are upon deck—they shake hands—

Fletcher crowds Hoover — they shake hands again—Wow—what a shake — they break — they shake hands again—

They break—I'll say this is a trip —they shake hands again—Oh, boy —Fletcher is crowding Hoover—

Film for Young Stars

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27—Two youngsters of more than ordinary good looks will be associated in Buddy Rogers' next picture "Young Sinners." Ruth Taylor is the other half of the combination. "Young Sinners" is a story of modern youth by John Farrow and gives both Rogers and Miss Taylor a chance to portray the young Montague Love. Robert Castle, the good-looking German who has been waiting for a part at Famous Players-Lasky, will play one of the important roles.

Dorothy Arzner, who wins Lois Weber represents the feminine element in the directorial ranks, will megaphone for "Young Sinners."

BESSIE LOVE'S friends are chuckling with delight over the way she has beaten the talkie situation. Some years ago, after David Wark Griffith discovered her Bessie was looked upon as a star. Then came seven days.

Then came the talkies. Bessie was all ready with her voice and her fine and her stage experience. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer engaged her to play the lead in "Broadway Melody."

After it was finished Louis B. Mayer and Irving Thalberg paged Bessie and offered her a long contract as a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer featured player.

ONE of New York's most picturesque figures is now on the Fox lot writing press yarns. His name is John Francis and he has been in the newspaper game so many years that even he isn't telling how long. He used to cover all the big murder cases and he was supposed to be one reporter who never fell down on a story.

Winfield Sheehan, an old-time newspaper man himself, has more ex-newspaper men in his employ than any other film executive.

EMIL JANNINGS' next is not to be a talkie. That need not distress Jannings' public. We really do not need sound in Charlie Chaplin's or Emil Jannings' pictures. These two pantomimists are so expert in their line that it is a question whether sound will be a help or a hindrance. Lydia Parks will play opposite Jannings.

* * *

HOLLYWOOD'S attention has been almost completely centered on the Barrymore-Costello and Denny-Stiefel marriages. Yet there is time to talk about other things. For instance, Wallace Smith is writing the scenario of "Bulldog Drummond," for Samuel Goldwyn.

He is one of our busiest authors and his most recent achievement is "The Tiger's Mate," a book which has just been put on the market.

MOST of the wise producers are making two versions of their films, one talking and one silent. The silent is destined for the theaters where there is no sound equipment and for the non-English speaking countries.

* * *

WARNER BROTHERS might have arranged the John Barrymore-Dolores Costello wedding, so elated are they over the outcome of the romance that started in their studio when Miss Costello was cast opposite Barrymore in "The Sea Beast." And now you can guess both Miss Costello and her new husband or Barrymore and his new bride, put the headlines whichever way you choose, are going to talk fast if they want to get out of co-starring in a picture.

"No American woman is interesting," writes Beverley Nichols, English journalist, "until after she obtains her first divorce."

Well, a good cash settlement does add a certain charm.

Particularly to Englishmen.

* * *

"After divorce," continues Nichols, "all American women seems to have something to talk about."

And her topic, in most cases, is the other woman.

* * *

"American husbands," Nichols contends, "are too involved with business."

And blondes.

The contention that no woman is interesting until after her first divorce is all right.

But it sounds like Hollywood Chamber of Commerce propaganda.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any druggstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

An Appalling Record

Before You Read, Try to Estimate the Number of FATAL Automobile Accidents Last Year in New England

The city of Fall River, which has not been without things to lament, will be excused if it finds reason in an official dispatch from Washington to do a little tooting of the municipal automobile horn.

Figures given out by statisticians of the Census Bureau bring to light the fact that the Bristol County city, notwithstanding its narrow streets, steep hills and heavy interstate traffic, is about the safest place in the United States for those who would avoid death from a motor accident.

Fall River's distinction is that of having the lowest mortality rate of any of the 68 cities in the Federal registration area, covering 37 States.

Fatalities in Mayor Monk's town in 1927 numbered only 11, equivalent to a rate of but 8.3 per 100,000.

Camden, N. J., with a death rate of 48.8 per 100,000 would appear to be the best place to go if one courts quick death. Two NEW ENGLAND cities, Hartford, with a record of 29.1, and New Haven, with a mark of 26 per 100,000, hold second and third places.

The average death rate of the cities was 23 per 100,000 population. Worcester's mark was 23.5, Boston's 17.7, Springfield's 16.3, Lowell's 14.5 and New Bedford's 13.4.

Of the New England States, only Connecticut reached the average of 19.8 made by the 37 States of the registration area. The figures for this section are:

	Deaths in 1927.	Rate per 100,000 est. population.
Maine	112	14.1
New Hampshire	71	15.6
Massachusetts	696	16.4
Vermont	60	17.0
Rhode Island	131	18.6
Connecticut	327	20.0

If these figures are at all mitigating it is only by comparison.

Comparatively, we make a better showing than other States, yet the fact remains that this is a record of ONE THOUSAND, THREE HUNDRED AND NINETY-SEVEN ACCIDENTAL DEATHS ON THE HIGHWAYS OF NEW ENGLAND IN A SINGLE YEAR, a story of wholesale slaughter such as should give us more concern than the mere ill health of any industry.

There might be a ray of encouragement in the situation if we could say that the figures constitute a challenge to each State to get down to MAINE'S figures, each city to do as well as FALL RIVER.

When, however, we come to the matter of automobile killings, the best record is warped, tainted and merely second-rate.

What is going to be DONE about it?

Little, perhaps, so long as we insist upon sobriety, and demand good health and perfect vision, in the locomotive engineer, but permit anyone and everyone to take to the open road behind another sort of engine.

"Just New England"

Most of Our Summer Visitors Have No Choice Among These States; Others Prefer Massachusetts, or Maine, or New Hampshire

Bathing girl posters having been taken away to the storehouse, and "winter sports" advertisements having yet to make their appearance in numbers—they should be out early this year—let us consider the happy condition of one New England industry which never shows a shrinkage.

The American Automobile Association, basing its figures upon advices from affiliated organizations throughout the country, reports that as compared with 1927 the number of persons who toured New England last Summer was greater by 10 per cent.

Motor clubs extended their neighborly services to 205,950 visitors.

What section of New England did the visitors prefer, if any?

More than half, or 120,619, were on a "general" tour They were going nowhere in particular. All THEY wanted was New England.

Of those who headed this way from other parts of the country with a specific destination in mind, Massachusetts was the preference of 31,746, Maine the first choice of 27,301, and New Hampshire, with its lakes and hills and shore, the objective of 16,180.

Ten years ago, the accuracy of these figures would have been questioned at once by Vermont and Rhode Island editors and, perhaps, a local board of trade, or two. The New England Council idea has taught us something. Today, the A. A. A. questionnaire will be used as the lever with which to obtain increased appropriations for "publicity." "Why," it will be demanded in Rhode Island, "do not more of these strangers inquire the way to Newport, ask about Narragansett Bay and its charms?" No page of a daily newspaper could catalog the reasons which inspire one to take a trip to Vermont—and go back again and again and again.

Everyone with eyes to see, and an abhorrence for blinders knows, or THINKS he knows, what ails the cotton textile trade. One section or another may at least "challenge" our supremacy in the manufacture of shoes. Concord, Lexington and Bunker Hill, the lakes, the mountains and the sea, are not to be removed by men or challenged by competition.

The 205,950 motor tourists checked last Summer by New England automobile clubs are believed to have left $20,250,000 here.

Is the "tourist dollar" worth cultivating?

A Flying Judge! What's Next?

By FRANKLIN COLLIER

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—There is a distinct and rugged he-man atmosphere about those chop houses with English tavern fronts running off either hip of Broadway in the 30's and 40's. They feature irish bacon and eggs, double lamb chops, meat stews, big Idaho baked potatoes packed with fiery paprika.

Their pies are double the average's slice and their puddings are deep dished with generous flagons of thick cream. Salads are in capacious bowls seasoned heavily with onions and garlic. The proprietors are those alert and chubby types peculiar to Broadway.

They are known as Jimmie, Eddie or Jack, and have the sleek appearance of having just quitted a barber shop. They grip a cigar tightly between firm teeth, talk a little out of the side of the mouth and have a fair weather manner that is quite engaging.

Customers seem to enjoy calling them by first name and receiving their hearty thump on the back. They are the types in the ringside seats at prizefights, generous in their donations to Broadway "benefits" and bear the negligible stamp of "good fellow."

Some of them run along profitably without selling liquor, but the majority have something behind the door for those who are "right," and quite a number are conducted in the wide open manner of the old days. The appeal is solely to those with the hearty appetites of a Will Hogg or Irvin Cobb.

This patronage offers a colorful exhibit of characters so indelibly linked with the Tenderloin—race track followers with hefty blondes, racketeers with their night pallor who breakfast at 4 p. m., booking agents, handbook men, touts and grafters.

The chophouse waiter is a distinct type that has passed in almost every other restaurant. He is past middle age, Irish, retains a delightful brogue and suffers from broken down arches, the almost inevitable occupational penalty of his servitude.

A RATHER important news tidbit to New Yorkers only was the passing of Trudy, the sea horses at the aquarium. To downtown Manhattan she was almost as much of a fixture as the Woolworth tower. She was a big help to the nimble pickpockets who make the aquarium their haven. Visitors often became so engrossed in Trudy's aquatic behaviorisms that lifting their wallets was simplified. Trudy was also a prolific source of copy for dull Monday mornings along Park Row. You can't lift a fish, which, come to think of it, wouldn't be much fun anyway.

THERE are children in New York who have never seen a steam railroad engine. And among them are those who live in tenements overlooking railroad tracks, too. Steam engines are forbidden in the city on account of the smoke, and most of them are abandoned at Hampton for the electrical locomotives.

SEVERAL big country clubs around New York now have ping-pong rooms. The game had a revival about a year ago when the crossword puzzle began to pick at the coverlets. Ping-pong is not the cream puff affair it used to be. The gentle pat and tap have become a clash and whang, and a ping-pong ball often has a black eye from the misplaced shot of some fellow ruffian.

MY military hair brush spy, Verne Porter, reports the most expensive of brassieres are on display in a Madison ave. shop. Gold backed with encrusted jeweled monogram—$450.

"WHAT reasons have you," posed a querist, "for feeling important enough to express personal opinions about plays, books and other forms of artistic endeavor?"

There are, so long as you are so inquisitive, no particular reasons for my living. But anyoldhow so long as I am, try to stop me. It will probably go on for years.

AND here is a way those of us who resemble something lost in the mail can look important. Just ride down Broadway in an automobile standing up and lifting the hat. And watch traffic stop.

ALL together, now, what is the full name of the vice-president? A trifle weak.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

CHIVALRY has raised Cain with this country.

B. Enoligacnor says it.

He says it in response to our query, "How Do American Wives Stack Up These Days?" We told about Toney's wife, and the hot lunch she brings to him each day at the dock. And we wondered if American wives regarded matrimony quite as seriously as I wells.

B. E. tells us, in no uncertain words, that they do NOT. And he blames it on the husbands who have "derailed" the wives by giving them too many privileges. Which will doubtless meet with a lot of enthusiastic applause from certain long-suffering gentlemen.

Dear Miss Robinson—

I am interested in your question—"How do American wives stack up these days?"

The forefathers of this country outlined the noblest plan that had ever been put before the world—the plan of emancipating wives. And gradually they put this plan into practice. But to the great sorrow of the average American husband, this plan has proved disastrous.

Read the papers from any section of this country and you'll find that American wives have reached the extreme of extravagance.

This nation is being run today by hoggish, egotistic, gold-digging divorcees who have brought on prohibition, unemployment and crime.

American wives are derailed.

Who derailed them?

The answer is plain—the American husband.

He, the one who for years strove to emancipate them, is now regarded merely as a good meal ticket He hardly rates as a husband.

I am not a peasant and I do not wish to see the American wife treated as a European peasant husband treats his wife. I do not think it is necessary for a wife to bring a hot lunch to her husband. But I do know that a poor European couple of the working class find more happiness together than a similar American couple with their luxurious tastes. American homes are much more sanitary and comfortable. I admit but that cannot offset the discontent and restlessness which have come with the wife's complete emancipation.

The best remedy for the present situation would be to prohibit divorce for a certain number of years. That would restore women to normalcy, and make this the model nation of the world.

B. Enoligacnor.

"American wives are derailed—" I wonder.

There's a big thought in that.

Has this new liberty generated such a tremendous head of steam that American women have shot clear off the old safe tracks of discipline and routine? Are they wallowing to hopeless wreckage in the sands of restlessness and discontent? The papers would seem to prove that they are. Those unhappy women you and I know—they're tragic evidently. But, on the whole, hasn't liberty been a good thing for American wives? I think it has.

Home-Made Whetstones

by Herbert Kaufman

The little group of inventors and business men whom American industry has just selected as the seven most useful citizens in the United States not only share that distinction but also hold in common the record of never having attended college.

Not one of them had a technical whetstone for his wits. The magnitude of their success is not the most amazing fact in their careers—the transcendent marvel is, how they succeeded in fields where trained and academic intelligence had scored utter failure.

They began life at the very scratches of poverty and knowledge. They had no borrowing capacity except at the bank above their shirt collars—an institution which has consistently underwritten progress and invention.

They had no rules, they had no tools. So they devised their sweat-tempered own, and with them redesigned industrial destiny.

But, for that matter, practically all innovation traces back to amateur imagination.

Samuel Morse, a portrait painter, conceived telegaphy; Emil Berliner, a drygoods clerk, devised the gramophone; Gillette, a bottle-cap salesman, is author of the first real safety razor; the spinning jenny was built by Arkwright, a barber, and the cotton-gin by Whitney, a school teacher.

Patterson, a coal merchant, patented the cash register and the Atlantic cable was laid by Cyrus Field, a merchant.

Who told you that originality demands specialized training?

And incidentally, what are you doing with your spare time?

The main wealths of the continent and control of its affairs are generally in the hands of men whose early circumstances diminished all chance of their subsequent achievements—folk whose parents drove plows, hammered horeshoes, carried tool kits and toted lunch boxes.

Our first President was an aristocrat but the last, a farm boy.

The fastest growing plants in the country took root from pay envelope seed.

Democracy picks her structural timber wherever it grows straightest and strongest, and never stops to ask if they are family trees.

Soap boxes may insist that deuces should count with aces, hereabouts, but ballot boxes continue to declare for the Constitutional guarantees that offer every lad a chance at the bank chairmanship, the directors' table and the White House.

America's creed is still "Go make it," not "Let's take it."

"V" VERSES by Herbert Kaufman
Vim Vigor Victory
There's a bank roll in a tin can that will open with a tug;
Fame and millions for a method to destroy the cotton bug;
What about the precious motion wasted daily by the ocean—
Or an automatic engine that will harness up the sun?
Opportunity is breeding chances for you while you're reading
Have you any notions handy for an under-water gun?
There are billions' worth of forces in a cubic mile of air;
Riches lurk beneath the desert—yours if you'll get water there;
And the need of cheaper fuel every winter grows more cruel.
Man, we haven't started thinking, scarcely anything is done.
